The Friends of Salisbury Charitable Trust

The Friends of Salisbury Charitable Trust has been launched to help the school remain open beyond this current school year. Salisbury Residential School offers a unique educational experience to many young girls every year who go on to have successful lives in their community. The school continues to face potential closure at the end of this year, despite winning a High Court case last year.

The website www.friendsofsalisbury.co.nz features stories of success from Salisbury. The public can help the charity through donations, and by spreading the word.

New Horizons for Women Trust Award

Applications are now open - please let your network contacts know. This year there is an online application process - <http://www.newhorizonsforwomen.org.nz/award-applications/>

Across Afghanistan and Pakistan, many families support educating their daughters, but things often change at puberty. Here's what it takes for fathers to buck the trend.

#NotBuyingIt App Could Put An End to Sexist Advertisements

Launched by MissRepresentation.org the new app will allow people to identify, photograph, map, and share sexist advertisements with a community of equally outraged people. The app will give users the ability to share images, see what others are sharing, rate the content, and communicate with the companies directly through Twitter.
